Web Design Portfolio

Hello there!

Welcome to my portfolio! My name is Kobe, and I'm a Web Developer and UI/UX designer who loves creating beautiful and meaningful products through design.

As a Computer Science graduate, I'm all about designing and building software. Design, to me, isn't just about looks; it's about the value it adds, the research and data behind it, and how practical it is for development.

My Designs.

The designs you're about to see in the next pages have a bit of a backstory. Some were part of projects I dove into, while others were wild experiments that never made it to production.

You'll also notice some mockups of existing apps or webpages where I let my imagination run wild, dreaming up designs that I'd personally be stoked to see come to life.

001 ARISE

Project Description

Tasked as the Lead Developer and Designer for this project at ARISE, my responsibility was to create an internal system tailored to the specific needs of their buildings and warehouses. The system was designed to present location data, monitor work hours, and record incidents, leveraging the capabilities of their internal API.

Project Requirements

- Create a system that is optimized and light-weight for older internal systems
- Address ARISE current workflow and employee constraints
- Improve ARISE's operational efficiency

002 SUPAPASS

Project Description

During the SupaPass interview process, I created a To-Do List Web App in a week to showcase my C.R.U.D skills. My design was selected as the best among other applicants, according to the CEO.

Project Requirements

- Have a sufficient amount of styling to establish a clear visual hierarchy.
- Respect user accessibility with regards to any button labels, colors, keyboard navigation, etc.
- Make the web app fully responsive across multiple breakpoints.
- Use Tailwind CSS to style the app.

003 DATE

Project Description

Engaged in a UI/UX practice discovered online, the primary goal was to identify an existing feature in an application or website and revamp it with a fresh design. The emphasis was on retaining the original functionality while preserving the hierarchy of importance among the elements.

Project Requirements

- Identify an existing feature in an app or website for redesign
- Focus on creating a new design while retaining overall functionality
- Maintain hierarchy of importance among the elements

005 COUNTER

Project Description

Motivated by mobile micromanagement applications, I embarked on creating my personalized Micromanagement application. Conducting extensive research, I explored areas that individuals might want to monitor and gather statistics about in their lives. I realized that enabling users to track anything of their choice would empower them to vigilantly observe and record data about aspects they find intriguing, fostering a personalized and insightful experience.

Project Requirements

- Draw inspiration from successful phone applications in the micromanagement niche
- Identify areas of interest for users to track and gather statistics about
- Foster a personalized and insightful experience for users

006 ESTATE

Project Description

Collaborating closely with a UK-based partner, I'm involved in the development of a cutting-edge real estate template website aimed at the UK market, specifically targeting real estate agents. Through extensive user research, we've identified a common pain point: many agents are overspending on outdated, unresponsive, and cumbersome designs for their personal websites.

Project Requirements

- Develop a cutting-edge website template to address the issues for real estate website owners.
- Provide an affordable and modern alternative for real estate agents' personal websites
